The Trevor Project was founded 25 years ago to respond to a suicide public health crisis disproportionately affecting LGBTQ+ young people. Even today, the crisis remains complex and far-reaching, with data showing that LGBTQ+ young people remain more than four times more likely to attempt suicide than their peers. Suicide currently ranks as the second leading cause of death among all young people in the U.S.

Thanks to the work of our staff, our volunteers, and our supporters across the country, we have grown over the years from a 24/7 phone Lifeline reaching several thousand young people per year to the preeminent resource for LGBTQ+ young people to thrive. In short, The Trevor Project has become the leading organization responding to the crisis of LGBTQ+ youth suicide.

Our goal is to provide a community of support for LGBTQ+ young people wherever they are in their journey. To do so, we have exponentially expanded the reach of our intervention Crisis Services across phone, text, and chat, and have developed a holistic multi-faceted suicide prevention approach that works to avert suicidal ideation earlier in the risk cycle.

From research and advocacy to public education and peer support, our expanded reach and investment in prevention programs are working to decrease the number of LGBTQ+ young people who enter crisis:

- The Trevor Project formalized research as a key organizational pillar in 2019, and our research team has published ground-breaking research showing more than 1.8 million LGBTQ+ young people in the United States seriously consider suicide each year. We launched the most expansive survey of LGBTQ+ youth mental health ever done, continue to illuminate the factors impacting LGBTQ+ young people’s mental health, and our reports and findings are frequently referenced by top tier media outlets around the country.

- We significantly expanded The Trevor Project’s advocacy work including adopting a nationwide campaign to end conversion therapy, successfully helping secure substantial designated funding to support LGBTQ+ youth in the national 988 suicide prevention program, and providing support to counter anti-transgender and nonbinary legislation around the country.
- TrevorSpace, our safe social networking platform, has served more than 640,000 LGBTQ+ young people around the world since inception, helping them explore their identities, get peer advice and support, and make friends globally.
- In Fall 2022, we expanded crisis intervention services internationally. Working alongside a team of Mexico-based experts who understand the distinct cultural needs and experiences of their country’s LGBTQ+ young people, we launched digital Spanish-speaking crisis services operations in Mexico in October.

Despite many advances, the last few years have also seen an intense, hostile political and cultural climate proliferate where LGBTQ+ young people’s rights and wellbeing are being threatened daily. It has unearthed new hurdles and barriers that pressurize our work. The Trevor Project is determined to remain a compassionate counterpoint to these coordinated efforts, and we are fighting harder than ever to protect LGBTQ+ young people’s right to live healthy and fulfilled lives.

While we are grateful for all the progress we’ve made, we also acknowledge that there is an enormous amount of work ahead.

This plan summarizes The Trevor Project’s intentions, goals, and strategies to leverage our many successes and learnings, function collaboratively within a larger ecosystem that affirms and uplifts LGBTQ+ young people, and dramatically increase the impact we have among our beloved LGBTQ+ young people’s lives.

Our strategy, grounded in rigorous analysis, furthers the relentless pursuit of our mission to be here for LGBTQ+ young people for years to come. Updates this year incorporate knowledge gained from evolving events, including an overall shift in emphasis from growth and expansion to quality and long-term sustainability across all our programs and services.

In short, in the span of twenty-five years, we have ushered the organization from a grassroots operation to a widely-recognized and respected nonprofit building a better world for at-risk LGBTQ+ young people in the U.S. and beyond.

On behalf of everyone across The Trevor Project’s community, we want to say thank you. The progress we’ve made to support LGBTQ+ young people would not be possible without the guidance and vision of so many who came before us. We look to the future and work tirelessly to contribute to a world where all LGBTQ+ young people can see a brighter future for themselves, and we warmly welcome you to continue building this movement with us.

I didn't know what else to do or who else to contact. So, I picked up my phone and I sent a text. And when someone from Trevor responded, it instantly made me feel like people were there for me, like I wasn't alone.
